For example, you can copy all your notes to the clipboard in just a few clicks. Moreover, you can set custom hotkeys that can trigger a number of macros. Also, you can create a simple macro that automatically closes the application. Thus, if you are not careful, you may end up making a lot of mistakes. Therefore, you can type a command and just press the key sequence to start a new macro or to modify it. As a result, you do not have to spend time entering a number of commands. Additionally, you can save the macros as regular text files and modify them, thereby, easily adding new ones. However, you can also use third-party programs to execute macros and, when using third-party programs, you will not benefit from the macros you have set. Instead, you can just press the key sequence that was recorded when you set the macro and the action will be performed. Moreover, since the macros are stored in text files, you can easily add new ones and easily rearrange the order they are stored.
