28 06 08:35:31 SELF SERVICE HELP LINE: (218) . What's New Version 1.0.20 BETA Featuring a brand new theme, improved keyboard controls, and a whole lot more. Ratings and Reviews This is a great update. Well thought out and great. This update has improved the control panel from hell to awesome and a mouse wheel lets you zoom into and out of items. Love this update. Will be updating as soon as version 1.0.21. Great work on this. Would love to see you sell the update or everything that can be added to it. Got the update from the link in the Readme and it's awesome. I can now use web keys to move my own players while they run around, I can hold down the home key to pin my defender and forwards to the centre square, and I can use the mouse wheel to zoom in and out without having to open and close the controls. Seriously, it's awesome. Thanks. Fifastreet4pcdemofreedownload . . . Q: retrieving values from a dict in a list that has been saved in a variable? I'm trying to create a method where I take data from a csv file and then save the data in a dict in a list. This then needs to be saved in a variable so that can be used later. However when the list is saved in a variable it no longer takes it for reference. Here's my code: def input(csv_path, triage_path): data = [] with open(csv_path, encoding="utf-8") as csv_file: file = csv.reader(csv_file) for line in file: data.append(csv.DictReader(line)) return data def data_access(): data_list = input("ABC.csv", 'ABC') print (data_list) return data_list The method is never called when the variable 'data_list' is found. I have used the same method for other programmes in the past and stored the same data in the same way but this has only recently happened with this code. EDIT - Here's the solution def input(csv_path, triage_path): data = [] with open(csv_path, encoding="utf-8") as csv_file: file = csv.DictReader(csv_file) for line in file: data.append(line) return data def data_access(): data_list = input("ABC.csv", 'ABC') if data_list: print (data_list) else: return I will explain a bit more why. The csv_path and triage_path are entered from the user at the
