“HyperMotion Technology” is now available as a Game Preset and can be found within All Formations, Position XIs, Builds and Play Styles. “HyperMotion Technology” can be turned off or set to a performance level within FIFA Ultimate Team. The heart of the “HyperMotion Technology” gameplay engine will be revealed during the FIFA World Cup Brazil 2014™. Throughout the tournament, players will be able to test different gameplay styles and tactics to unlock new editions of the official matchday kits for the home and away kits, midfield and back kits, third, fourth and fifth kits. Highlights from the FIFA World Cup Brazil 2014™ will include the introduction of new penalties, the proliferation of throw-ins, and players taking more touches of the ball inside the penalty area – all of which are now more realistic thanks to “HyperMotion Technology.” We also hope to bring new life to the FUT Draft Mode, with FIFA World Cup Brazil 2014™ players set to be available in this mode when the World Cup kicks off. It’s sure to be a fun way to recruit your favourite national teams and players, as we’ll be able to hone in on the best teams and players from around the world.
