and the Bucks may not have an answer yet for the two biggest needs on the team. What do you see as the glaring weaknesses right now on the Bucks? There's clearly a need for shooting and defense in Milwaukee, as the Bucks finished 27th in the NBA in field goal shooting and 30th in points allowed per game. This is a great time to get a young player, and the draft offers a wealth of talent on the wing, including prospects like Kentucky's Willie Cauley-Stein and Arizona's Stanley Johnson, two proven shot-blockers who would offer solid defense to a team that struggled with the glass this year. There's also the possibility of a European point guard with some point guard skills in Nikola Mirotic, a smooth scorer who could bring some much-needed depth and toughness to Milwaukee's bench. The Bucks may just have to wait to see what comes to them in the 2012 NBA Draft.

Tyson Chandler -- Acquired by Milwaukee on Jan. 8, 2011
Player: Forward/Center
Position: Small Forward/Center
Numbers: 5/7/11
Stats: All stats are from NBA.com
Strengths: If I had to sum up his game in one sentence, I would say that he's a solid, well-rounded player. He's a good defensive rebounder and he has good size and a strong frame, but he's not a dominant rebounder or block-getter. Chandler hasn't scored much during his seven-year career but he
